Frequently Asked Questions

How much do I need to place as a deposit to secure an apartment or cottage?

A 10% of the 2028 entrance fee is required to reserve a specific apartment, a 5% of the entrance fee is required to reserve a specific cottage. The deposit is 100% refundable up until 180 days from the deposit date.

Your deposit will earn interest which can be used to pay the balance of your entrance fee, however interest is not paid if you withdraw your deposit.

What happens if I need to move in before Heron's Key Phase II opens?

You are considered a Future Resident for Heron's Key and will also get priority on Phase I should you need to make a move earlier. However Phase II allows future residents who would like larger units to reserve that and have the guarantee of their apartment being available for them once we open.

When will apartment/cottage interior selections be made?

Our team will work with you to make your apartment selections about 10 months prior to opening. Some of these include carpet, paint, cabinets, countertops and light fixtures.

Can I make any customizations to my apartment?

Yes, however they must be approved by our team. Heron's Key will require pre-payment of any upgrades you decide to make as well as the cost to bring it back to our standard.

When will I get more updates on the construction progress?

Our team will be sending monthly updates once you have made a deposit and we will host events every quarter for our depositors to meet other current residents.

Can I attend activities at Heron's Key once I am a future resident of Phase II?

Yes, you are encouraged to join activities. For those that require a reservation, please reach out to our concierge at (877) 892-7129

Heron's Key is a Type A Life Plan Community, not-for-profit, owned and managed by Emerald Communities, and offers predictable costs for our residents:

An Additional Benefit: Possible Entry Fee Tax Deductions

Residents of entry-fee retirement communities may be eligible to deduct a portion of the entry fee, and possibly monthly fees, depending on the type of contract offered by the community.

Here are a few key details to understand:

- Some portion of the entry fee must be accounted for by the community as a pre-paid health-care expense. This is always the case with life care contracts (Type A) and, to a lesser degree, modified fee-for-service contracts (Type B). Very rarely will such deductions be available for a fee-for-service contract (Type C).
- Only non-refundable portions of the entry fee can be used for tax-deduction purposes. Any refundable portion of the entry fee should not be counted in the formula to determine the deductible amount. If a resident deducts any portion of the entry fee that is eventually refunded via a return of capital contract, then the refundable portion could be taxable as income.
- Most often a CCRC's auditor or chief financial officer will recommend an appropriate formula to determine the allowable deduction amount, often providing a written explanation each year for residents. A deduction equivalent to 30 to 40 percent of the entry fee is not uncommon for life care contracts.
- Some portion of the monthly service fee may also be deductible. The percentage of each month's payment that is deductible is often the same percentage as that which applies to the entry fee.
- Under the current tax law, individuals may deduct medical expenses exceeding 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income (AGI). The actual deductible amount will depend on your taxable income and any other qualifying medical expenses.
- If adult children pay the entry fee, or some portion of it, they may be entitled to take a tax deduction. However, other factors must also be considered, including the total amount of financial support they provide for their parents.
